Dunhill The White Spot Shell Briar 4135 Pipe - Group 4 Quarter Bent Horn in Sandblasted Briar with Ebonite Stem

Discover the timeless excellence of the Dunhill The White Spot Shell Briar 4135, a Group 4 icon that combines English tradition, historical innovation, and outstanding craftsmanship. This medium-sized semi-bent Horn model represents one of the most refined expressions of Dunhill pipe making.

Crafted from carefully selected briar, this pipe stands out for its renowned Shell Briar finish, defined by a deep and textured sandblast. The sandblasting technique, originally developed in the 1870s for industrial cleaning and surface finishing, was brilliantly reinterpreted by Alfred Dunhill, who in 1917 introduced it to pipe making, creating a revolutionary and unmistakable aesthetic.

The sandblasted surface enhances the natural grain of the briar, giving the pipe a distinctive, elegant, and technical appearance. The bowl features a flat rim and a slightly tapered drilling, designed to ensure a smooth, controlled, and even smoke.

The ebonite stem provides comfort, durability, and a classic feel, perfectly matching Dunhill's understated and timeless style. The semi-bent Horn shape offers a balanced and harmonious profile, ideal for smokers seeking elegance and functionality in one piece.

Perfect for collectors and connoisseurs, this pipe represents a meeting point between history, innovation, and English tradition.
