Ser Jacopo L1 Smooth Bent Pipe | Italian Handmade

Within the vast and eclecticism-rich landscape of high-end craftsmanship in Pesaro, the Ser Jacopo dalla Gemma workshop stands out for its extraordinary ability to blend a bold design with a masterful technical rigor. This creation, included in the prestigious L1 grading, offers a splendid interpretation of the Marche-based house's philosophy, expressed in a classic shape yet rich in high-level functional and aesthetic details.

The pipe presents itself with an elegant bent silhouette, which guarantees a perfect balance both during hands-free smoking and when held gently between the teeth. The briar body is enhanced by a refined smooth finish with a dark coloration: an intense and warm chromatic choice, specifically designed to bring out, through the transparency of the stain, the natural grain and birds-eye of the briar. In contrast with the fluid and sinuous lines, the upper rim of the bowl is perfectly flat, creating a clean geometric contrast that gives rigor to the head.

Hidden inside the head is a decidedly capacious bowl, characterized by an impeccable cylindrical chamber drilled with millimeter precision. This particular internal geometry favors a consistently regular and constant draw, guaranteeing optimal combustion of the tobacco and an excellent aromatic rendition, particularly with more structured mixtures or complex blends that require the right amount of space to fully express their olfactory spectrum.

To complete this refined creation, we find a mouthpiece made of black acrylic, a material unalterable over time that keeps its deep, mirrored luster intact. The mouthpiece adopts a saddle design and features a slightly elongated line: this stylistic detail not only visually lightens the mass of the briar, but also lends considerable momentum and a sophisticated elegance to the entire silhouette of the piece. As a seal of guarantee and authenticity, the unmistakable silver letter "j" stands out, an emblem of the high quality standards signed by Ser Jacopo.
