Radice Silk Cut Cherrywood Artisan Pipe: Substance and Manufacturing Tradition

The artisan production signed by Radice represents one of the historic expressions of Italian pipe-making excellence. This creation, belonging to the Silk Cut finish, perfectly embodies the philosophy of the Cucciago workshop: giving life to compact, solid smoking instruments of great substance, designed to guarantee a flawless user experience combined with a timelessly charming aesthetic.

Functional Geometries and "Stand-Up" Convenience

The model chosen for this piece is a classic, medium-sized Cherrywood. The pipe stands out for its bold, clean lines and exceptional structural practicality: thanks to the flat base of the bowl, it is a stand-up pipe, capable of standing on its own when placed on a table or desk, eliminating the need for a pipe rest.

The bowl boasts a generous capacity and features a slightly conical chamber. The body is completed by a tapered black acrylic stem, designed to offer maximum comfort to the palate and destined to maintain its brilliance over time.

Distinctive Details and Markings:

- The Natural Smooth Base: In contrast to the sandblasted surface of the body, the bottom base of the bowl has been intentionally left smooth and natural.
- The Chronological Marking: This smooth section was preserved to host the workshop's official stampings. In addition to the Radice brand name and the Silk Cut finish designation, it is stamped with the number 46, which identifies the current year of production (2026), following the brand's historic chronological progression that began in 1980.

The Radice Silk Cut Cherrywood is a piece of true substance, rooted in great artisan tradition yet highly functional for the daily needs of the modern smoker.
