Nicola Pirocco Handmade Pipe: Elegance in Briar and Bocote

This creation bears the signature of Nicola Pirocco, a talented artisan working in Casalbordino, Abruzzo. A student of the Accademia della Pipa, Pirocco represents a very interesting presence in the pipe-making scene. His is a story of dedication: with the typical determination and practicality of the Abruzzo people, he has successfully transformed a deep passion as a collector into an authentic lifestyle, quickly winning the favor of enthusiasts both in Italy and internationally.

Nicola Pirocco's pipes stand out for a personal and refined interpretation of classic shapes. The artisan favors compact dimensions, which give the object a rare formal balance, capable of combining aesthetics and ease of handling.

The choice of raw material is fundamental: this pipe is crafted using premium briar from Mimmo Romeo, a selection consistently appreciated by expert smokers for its excellent combustion properties and the beauty of its grain, here enhanced by a warm dark brown finish.

Technical and Construction Details

The design is embellished with a bocote wood ferrule, a refined tropical wood native to Mexico and Central America. The pipe features an army mount, which combined with the ebonite stem—meticulously handcrafted from rod stock—ensures a solid and functional fit.
