Dunhill (The White Spot) Bruyere Pipe - Group 1 Billiard (Model 1103)

In the world of pipe smoking, a Dunhill (The White Spot) pipe represents the ultimate benchmark for tradition, engineering, and philological rigor. This specimen, belonging to the historic Bruyere finish, is identified by model code 1103: a classic interpretation of the Billiard shape within Group 1, which distinguishes the most compact pipes from the famous London manufacturer.

Aesthetics and Bruyere Finish

The Bruyere finish is the oldest and most emblematic of the English house, first introduced in 1910. It is characterized by a completely smooth surface, dyed in a warm, deep amber or dark bordeaux hue, carefully designed to highlight the natural and compact grain of the briar.

The silhouette is that of a straight Billiard, featuring clean, essential, and exceptionally well-proportioned lines. The defining characteristic of this specimen lies in its extraordinary lightness: weighing less than 18 grams, it stands as a true featherweight, ideal for being held effortlessly between the teeth.

Bowl Architecture and Internal Engineering

- Bowl: Features a regular cylindrical drilling that offers good capacity in relation to the reduced scale of the pipe. This allows for a complete and satisfying smoke while maintaining a minimal footprint.
- Inner Tube: As is standard in the finest tradition of straight Dunhill models, the shank houses an aluminum inner tube.
