Alinetu Pipe by Daniele Carbini – Smooth Natural Quarter Bent Freehand

The Alinetu pipe, the signature brand of talented Sardinian pipemaker Daniele Carbini, is developed on a medium-sized, smooth quarter bent freehand shape.

Aesthetics and Proportions: The Shank Takes Center Stage

The visual and structural focal point of this creation lies in its original management of volumes, designed to give the piece a strong and instantly recognizable character:

- The Oversized Shank: Unlike traditional shapes, the pipe features an elongated shank that is intentionally slightly oversized compared to the bowl. This design choice shifts the pipe's visual axis, imparting a dynamic silhouette, excellent balance in the hand, and a highly unique aesthetic.
- The Natural Finish: The smooth finish is enhanced by a natural staining that celebrates the purity of the wood. This choice leaves the briar completely uncovered, highlighting its compactness and grain pattern.
- The Chamber and Bowl: The bowl, with medium external dimensions, houses a chamber with a medium-to-small capacity*. The internal drilling features a* subtle taper*.*

The Hand-Cut Cumberland Stem

- The Material: The stem is entirely turned and hand-cut from a cumberland rod*, a premium variety of ebonite renowned for its extraordinary softness under the teeth.*
- The Grey-Orange Hue: The texture of the cumberland stands out for its refined mottled grey and orange grain*. These colored streaks create a perfect chromatic dialogue with the natural tone of the briar, breaking away from classic black and accentuating the artistic nature of the piece.*
- Profile: The stem is finished with a standard line and a standard bit termination.

Note for the collector: Choosing an Alinetu pipe signed by Daniele Carbini means adding a piece of contemporary Sardinian art to your collection. The interplay of contrasts between the medium-sized bowl, the intentionally prominent shank, and the vibrancy of the grey-orange cumberland makes this freehand an exceptional meditation instrument—as high-performing technically as it is sophisticated in its presence.
