Mimmo Romeo Smooth Natural Pipe – Bent Freehand with Warthog Tusk Inlay

On the international slow-smoking scene, the name Mimmo Romeo immediately evokes the absolute excellence of Italian briar.

Operating from his workshop in Liguria, Romeo holds a position of global prominence: in addition to being an established and highly esteemed pipemaker, he is universally recognized as one of the world's greatest briar cutter (briar cutters). This profound and visceral knowledge of the raw material, inherited through family tradition, allows him to read the block of wood before even working it, shaping freehand forms that follow and enhance the natural architecture of the briar.

Freehand Design: Compactness and Ergonomics

This model is developed on a medium-to-small smooth, bent freehand shape. It is a piece with a compact design, engineered to offer a distinctly anatomical and ergonomic user experience.

- The Bowl and the Briar: The pipe features a medium-sized bowl characterized by beautiful, clean briar. The wood has been intentionally left completely natural.*
- The Chamber: The internal chamber is calibrated to a medium-to-small capacity. The drilling is cylindrical.*

Premium Details on the Shank: The Warthog Tusk

- The Extension/Band: The shank is adorned with a refined warthog tusk extension. This material, highly sought after in haute craftsmanship for its density and delicate ivory hues rich with natural micro-grain, creates a sharp and elegant color contrast, giving the piece an additional touch of uniqueness.*

Hand-Cut Cumberland Stem

- Material and Craftsmanship: The stem is entirely turned and hand-cut from a premium cumberland rod. The characteristic mottled grain of this material dialogues chromatically with both the light tone of the warthog tusk and the natural texture of the briar. The high-grade ebonite of the cumberland also guarantees optimal softness and comfort under the teeth.*

Note for the collector: Owning a pipe born from the hands of Mimmo Romeo means owning a piece of Italian briar history. The combination of the completely natural finish of the bowl, the ergonomic compactness of the bent freehand shape, and the exotic contrast of the warthog tusk extension makes this piece an exceptionally high-performing work of applied art with lasting value.*
