Peder Jeppesen Danish Handmade Pipe - Ida Gr 5 Freehand Full Bent

Danish pipe-making enjoys an international reputation of excellence, and this creation by Peder Jeppesen is a tangible testament to it. The piece in question belongs to the Ida series, distinguished by the Gr 5 (Group 5) grading.

This is a pipe of significant proportions, designed for smokers who appreciate solidity and a commanding presence.

Freehand Design and Craftsmanship

The shape of the piece is a freehand, reminiscent of the architectural silhouette of a Volcano, characterized by a flared base that tapers as it rises toward the rim.

- Smooth Finish: The bowl body and the shank are left smooth and polished to emphasize the natural grain of the briar.
- Bark Top Detail: A strip of natural bark runs skillfully along the entire base of the bowl and continues seamlessly onto the underside of the shank, adding a rustic texture.

From a functional standpoint, the pipe features a full bent shape—a geometry that optimally distributes weight and relieves jaw tension during a smoke, balancing the substantial size of the piece.

- The Chamber: The bowl houses a highly capacious chamber, ideal for slow, extended smoking sessions. The internal drilling is cylindrical.
- The Stem: The design is completed by a marbled acrylic stem. This choice of color and material not only complements the aesthetics of the briar but also ensures superior long-term durability compared to ebonite, resisting oxidation and keeping its luster unaltered.
