The Big Ben Standard 704 Smooth Bent pipe with an ebonite mouthpiece stands out in the slow smoking landscape for its distinct geometric character and the originality of its lines. Far from traditional rounded shapes, the 704 shape develops a Bent Panel architecture: the bowl features an octagonal section crafted with sharp, symmetrical panels that create a play of edges and flat surfaces, while the shank maintains a classic round profile that makes the silhouette slender and harmonious. The smooth finish enhances the grain of the briar, which follows and highlights the facets of the bowl. This model is fitted with a comfortable black ebonite mouthpiece, a noble material appreciated for its softness between the teeth, ideal for balancing the weight of this bent pipe while holding it. From a technical standpoint, removing the mouthpiece reveals an internal shank drilling executed to the millimeter.
