Ser Jacopo Delecta R1 C Pipe: A Synthesis of Ergonomics and Aesthetic Refinement

The Ser Jacopo Delecta R1 C pipe holds a rightful place within the famous manufacturing tradition of Pesaro, offering a perfect balance between structural solidity and refined details.

The Delecta series by Ser Jacopo represents one of the classic and most highly appreciated lines of the Pesaro manufacture. It is important to emphasize that this classification does not identify a specific shape, but rather defines a family of finishes and a precise, rigorous quality grade. Indeed, the line is historically available in numerous traditional shapes (including Dublin, Apple, Bulldog, Billiard, Rhodesian, etc.).

Geometry, Line, and Tactile Comfort

In this specific version, the model is developed on a sinuous bent Apple shape of medium size. The overall compactness of the line is not just an aesthetic choice, but translates into excellent functional quality:

- The Rustication: The bowl features a bold and deep rustication, worked entirely by hand. This finish enhances the textured character of the briar, while guaranteeing an extremely firm grip and a pleasant tactile feel, effectively dissipating heat during use.
- The Ergonomics: Thanks to the calibrated proportions and the excellent balance of the curve, the pipe enjoys good ergonomics provided by the compactness of the line.

Chromatic Details and Silver Inserts

The aesthetic identity of this model is enriched by a sophisticated interplay of materials and contrasts that breaks up the dark finish of the briar:

- The Stem and the Band: Made of amber-like acrylic, the stem mirrors the warm hues of the precious natural resin. The same color combination is echoed by the application of a matching band on the end of the shank.
- The Silver Contrast: To embellish the joint, a thin silver band on the stem creates a distinct and refined visual separation between the shank band and the stem itself. Finally, the unmistakable silver "J" is embedded on the top of the stem, the historic emblem of the Ser Jacopo manufacture.

Chamber Architecture and Smoking Experience

From a purely technical standpoint, the pipe is designed to offer an ideal performance with a wide range of tobaccos:

- The Chamber (Fornello): Characterized by a medium capacity, it proves to be versatile and suitable for both daily smokes and more attentive tasting sessions. The flawlessly executed cylindrical drilling ensures a regular draw and an even combustion of the pack from start to finish.
