Radice Rind Pure Pipe: Harmony of Shapes and Textured Contrasts

The Radice family manufacture is internationally renowned, and within their catalog, the Rind Pure finish combines the traditional and vigorous Radice rustication with a choice of colors or contrast details left natural, highlighting the purity of the briar without the use of masking dyes. It is a line designed for those who appreciate the more textured, ancestral, and alive aspect of the pipe.

Artisan Design and "Candle" Aesthetics

This specific model offers an interesting artisan interpretation of a compact straight Apple.

- The Rustication and the Candle Effect: The bowl of the pipe is defined by a bold and deep rustication, carved entirely by hand. The uniqueness of this piece lies in the candle effect: the rustic workmanship seems almost to "melt" and fade away at the top of the bowl, stopping right below a flat and completely smooth rim.
- "Sitter" Functionality: The geometry of the pipe is extremely practical: the base is shaped in such a way that the pipe stands up by itself when placed on a flat surface. This feature makes it incredibly convenient during moments of pause or during tobacco loading operations.
- The Stem: Made of classic tapered black acrylic, it offers optimal comfort to the bite and guarantees a linear airflow. Embedded on the top are the two wooden dots, the unmistakable and historic trademark that certifies the authenticity of every Radice-signed creation.

Chamber Architecture and Technical Quality

- Thick Walls: The bowl boasts thick walls. The generous mass of briar acts as an excellent thermal insulator, protecting the pipe from overheating.
- Cylindrical Drilling.

An Ideal Instrument (Even for Beginners)

Thanks to the robustness of the walls and tolerance to temperature changes, this creation proves to be an excellent smoking instrument suitable even for beginners. Those approaching the world of slow smoking for the first time will find a reliable ally in the stability and ease of management of this compact Apple.
