Manù by Emanuele Bruno Handmade Sandblasted Stand-Up Volcano Pipe with Horn Accent Ring

This handmade pipe is crafted in Italy, by Emanuele Bruno, a pipemaker who signs his creations under the Manù brand. His work is distinguished by careful attention to proportions and the pursuit of a balance between functionality and form, resulting in lightweight, finely finished pipes designed for everyday use.

This model offers a personal interpretation of the classic Volcano shape in a compact size. The characteristic wide, flat base gives the pipe excellent stability, allowing it to stand upright without the need for a pipe stand (stand-up), while the gradual taper of the bowl creates a harmonious and dynamic silhouette.

The surface is finished with a fine, even sandblast, highlighting the natural structure of the briar and providing a pleasant tactile feel.

The stem is handcrafted from hand-cut ebonite rod stock and features a Fishtail bit, a solution appreciated for its comfort during smoking and the precision of its craftsmanship. The transition between the shank and the stem is enhanced by an elegant natural horn accent ring, adding a refined material contrast while complementing the pipe's clean, understated design.

The bowl has a small chamber capacity and features a conically drilled tobacco chamber.

Thanks to its exceptionally light weight and compact dimensions, this Manù pipe is easy to carry and enjoyable to use in everyday situations. Its ability to stand upright on its own, combined with its lightness and comfortable ergonomics, further enhances its practicality.
