Francesco Ganci Handmade Rusticated Bent Isetta Pipe with Galalith Ring

This handmade pipe is crafted in Liguria, Italy, by Francesco Ganci, an Italian artisan known for his ability to reinterpret both classic and original shapes with a distinctive personal style and a strong focus on balancing aesthetics and functionality.

This model features the characteristic Isetta shape, inspired by the famous microcar that became an icon of Italian and European design. Its compact proportions and bent profile give the pipe a distinctive character while maintaining excellent ergonomics and a natural feel in the hand.

The bowl features a deep, evenly executed hand-rusticated finish that provides a pleasant tactile feel. The smooth Easy Load rim makes filling the bowl easier while creating an elegant contrast with the rusticated surface.

Despite its compact dimensions, the bowl offers a good chamber capacity and features a cylindrical tobacco chamber.

The Fishtail stem is handcrafted from high-quality ebonite rod stock, ensuring both comfort and durability. The transition between the shank and the stem is enhanced by an elegant galalith accent ring, a traditional material appreciated in the world of handmade pipes for its refined appearance and enduring aesthetic value.

Thanks to its light weight, compact size, and bent shape, this Francesco Ganci pipe is especially practical to carry and enjoy during everyday activities, a walk, or moments of outdoor relaxation. The distinctive Isetta shape, combined with the quality of Italian handmade craftsmanship, makes it an original, functional, and enjoyable pipe to use.

A pipe that expresses the character of Italian artisanal craftsmanship, combining creativity, meticulous construction, and carefully selected materials in a compact design created for everyday use.
