Valbruna Italian Handcrafted Pipe – Rusticated Apple Shape

In his workshop in Gabicce Mare, in the Marche region, craftsman Simone Gaudenzi produces Valbruna pipes. Backed by extensive and consolidated experience in the pipe-making industry, Gaudenzi has launched the production of models signed under his own brand, combining technical know-how developed over the years with meticulous artisan care in every single manufacturing phase.

This model is presented as a understated and essential interpretation of the classic Apple shape. The pipe is a straight model with a rusticated finish on the body, a finish that guarantees a firm grip and a pleasant tactile feel. The top rim of the bowl has been left smooth, contrasting the natural briar with the underlying rustication, and also features an easy-load bevel, a practical feature that facilitates tobacco packing and loading.

The shank has an oval section that seamlessly connects to the tapered ebonite stem, featuring a standard bit for a stable and comfortable bite. The bowl has a medium capacity and a chamber drilled with a slight taper towards the bottom.

Thanks to its balanced proportions, compact size, and ease of handling and maintenance, this pipe is an excellent choice both for the experienced smoker looking for a solid daily-use model and for the beginner wishing to take their first steps with a reliable and well-structured tool.
