This Italian handcrafted Valbruna pipe represents a refined interpretation of the classic Lumberman shape, hand-carved by Simone Gaudenzi in his workshop in Gabicce Mare. The classification is Sandblasted 2 Jellyfish.

The pipe features a straight, slender profile of medium-large proportions, balanced by the characteristic oval-section shank that defines its architecture. The spacious bowl offers a chamber with a slight taper toward the bottom. Crowning the rim, the top border retains its natural bark top, leaving the raw plateau crust visible for a bold visual contrast.

The mouthpiece is cut from a rod of black acrylic with a saddle stem profile.
