Ashton Pebble Grain XX English Pipe - Curved Sandblasted Egg

English pipe by Ashton, classified as Pebble Grain XX, featuring a refined sandblasted finish and a medium-sized curved Egg shape. The soft, compact lines of the body emphasize the balanced proportions of the shape, with an elegant and understated character.

The slightly conical drilled chamber is well proportioned for a medium-sized pipe and integrates harmoniously with the curved body. The Pebble Grain surface, achieved through sandblasting, enhances the grain of the briar and gives the pipe a well-defined, tactile texture.

The ebonite stem, with a standard-style button, completes the construction while maintaining a coherent balance between the bowl and stem. The curvature contributes to the harmonious appearance of the pipe and highlights its classic character.

The Egg shape is distinguished by the rounded, gently tapering profile of the bowl, giving the pipe a composed and understated appearance. Overall, this Ashton Pebble Grain XX interprets the tradition of the English pipe through carefully balanced proportions, a sandblasted finish, and a discreet design, making it well suited to those who appreciate classic and well-proportioned shapes.
