Federico Becker 4 Clubs: An Artisan's Interpretation of the Dublin Chimney Stand-Up

This handcrafted pipe by Federico Becker represents an outstanding expression of Italian artisan pipe making. Federico belongs to a historic dynasty of pipe makers that has helped shape Italy's pipe-making tradition. Continuing the path established by his grandfather, Fritz Becker, and further developed by his father, Paolo, he interprets briar with a distinctive personal style, characterized by rigorous proportions, meticulous attention to geometry, and exceptional care for detail.

Bearing the 4 Clubs stamp, this creation reflects the selection of a high-quality briar block, enhanced through workmanship of the highest standard.

Design and Geometry: Freehand Dublin Chimney Shape

The pipe features a straight configuration and a freehand shape that reinterprets the classic Dublin Chimney: a tall, slender bowl that flares slightly towards the rim, lending the silhouette elegance and vertical momentum.

Ingenious Stand-Up Design: The base of the bowl features a distinctive protruding point which, combined with the stem's contact point, allows the pipe to stand perfectly balanced on a flat surface. This stand-up configuration combines practical functionality with sculptural elegance, eliminating the need for a pipe rest or dedicated stand.

Ring Grain Sandblasted Finish and Bowl Geometry

Ring Grain Sandblasted Finish: The deep sandblasting brings out a magnificent pattern of concentric growth rings (ring grain), running regularly across the entire bowl. This richly textured surface offers a pleasing tactile experience while helping dissipate heat during smoking.

Conically Drilled Bowl: The medium-capacity tobacco chamber features conical drilling, contributing to the pipe's distinctive internal geometry.

Tapered Cumberland Stem

Completing the pipe's architecture is a tapered Cumberland stem, whose warm-toned, striped vulcanite creates a subtle yet refined color contrast with the brown sandblasted briar. The slightly fishtail-shaped mouthpiece provides a slim, comfortable bite while distributing the smoke evenly across the tongue.
